Re: SCE&G's proposed hike in prices

Dear Sirs:

My husband and I are an elderly white couple who have been married 52 years. I was an elementary school teacher with a master's degree who taught 25 years. My husband, who will be 83 on December 15, had various white collar jobs throughout the years.

My monthly Social Security check is ~~1065.00~~ after Medicare Part B is deducted, and my school pension is ~~400.00~~. My husband's Social Security check is a little over ~~1000.00~~ per month after Medicare deduction and his work pension is ~~1274.00~~.

We are having difficulty living on our income. Although we have a little in Certificates of Deposit, we try not to use any of our limited savings because we are afraid of outliving our money. We feel that SCE&G should not be allowed to increase the cost of electricity every year to finance building nuclear plants. We feel they should borrow money if necessary rather than pass their costs on to their customers, just as my husband has had to borrow money to pay for hearing aids. He is still paying for two ambulance trips to the hospital, which occurred earlier this year. He has finally paid for his debts to two hospitals.

In view of the fact that other electric companies in South Carolina are charging their customers less than SCE&G, we feel the latter should not be granted a new increase.
